Why A Uniform?

Liberty Christian Classical School sets a high standard for students in their dress and appearance to express reverence for God and for the task of education and to demonstrate respect for one another.

A uniform policy promotes strong personal habits, the honor of self and others, modesty, and discipline.

Adherence to the policy diminishes economic and social barriers between students, increases a sense of belonging and school pride, encourages good judgment, models good citizenship, and encourages all to perform at their highest level.

Liberty encourages parents to hold their children accountable for adhering to the uniform and dress code policy. When teachers must address infractions, precious time reserved for education is wasted. Uniform policy adherence is primarily the responsibility of the family at home.

Students are expected to be in uniform when on campus unless a rare occasion has been designated by school administration. Students will also wear their uniforms on most field trips and outings that occur during a typical school day. The uniform is governed by the following biblical principles:

Why A Uniform?

1. The way we dress can honor God by reflecting respect for our bodies and for others or can dishonor God by showing disrespect for our bodies and others. (1 Corinthians 6:20)

2. We should not dress in a manner that draws self-gratifying attention. Instead we should be Christ-like in both conduct and dress. (Romans 13:14)

3. We should not view our physical appearance or beauty as the source of our value, but rather should see that our value is inherent as God's unique creation. We should strive to let our attractiveness emanate from a Christlike spirit and good conduct. (1 Peter 3:3-4; 1 Timothy 2:9-10; Colossians 3:17)

4. All students must dress in uniform clothing designated by the academy for their biological, genetic sex confirmed at birth. (Genesis 1:27; Deut. 22:5)

Students are encouraged to honor the stated and implied principles of the uniform. We strongly discourage the practice of looking for loopholes and of applying a legalistic approach to the uniform in both practice and enforcement. Teachers do not enjoy reprimanding students and find even more distasteful debating with them over the uniform standards. Let's work together to make the uniform a useful tool.

French Toast Brand is a good example of uniform pieces and can be bought at Kohl's, Amazon, Target, Old Navy, Walmart, etc., or online at their cousin shop, Cookies.com. Lands End also carries uniforms including "Plaid Hunter Navy" print.
